

THABANG LEKHETO

Financial Advisor

When clients meet Thabang Lekheto, they quickly discover a professional who puts their goals and financial wellbeing first. With over seven years of experience in the financial services industry, Thabang is dedicated to guiding individuals, families, and business owners towards long-term financial freedom through tailored and practical solutions.

Thabang's career began in customer-focused sales, where he spent more than five years developing strong people skills and a natural ability to understand client needs. Motivated by a passion for helping others achieve financial security, he transitioned into the financial services industry, where he has built his career on a reputation for trust, transparency, and care.

He has successfully completed the Regulatory Examination (RE5) and the Class of Business qualification in Long-term Insurance. These credentials, combined with his experience, enable him to provide clients with reliable advice across a wide range of financial planning needs. His areas of expertise include risk management, investment planning, and retirement planning – the essential building blocks of a secure financial future.

What sets Thabang apart is his client-first approach. He believes that financial planning should never be about selling products, but about helping people achieve peace of mind. By listening carefully, understanding unique circumstances, and creating customised strategies, Thabang ensures his clients' needs always come first. He takes pride in simplifying complex financial matters so clients can make informed decisions with confidence.

At the heart of his work are values of integrity, honesty, and self-respect. These principles guide Thabang in every client relationship, ensuring that his advice is always transparent and in the client's best interest. His clients value not only his technical knowledge but also his personal commitment to walking with them on their journey to financial security.

Beyond his professional life, Thabang is passionate about sport. A former professional athlete, he competed in the 200m and 400m sprints and also played rugby. Today, he continues to channel that discipline and dedication into his community. He is actively involved in his local neighbourhood watch and supports charitable initiatives, including donations to communities in need.

With a balanced blend of expertise, professionalism, and approachability, Thabang is more than just a planner of finances – he is a partner dedicated to helping clients protect what matters most and build a future of lasting stability.
